Alleged Improper Conduct of a Teacher and Her Principal.

INDIGNANT DENIALS BY BOTH.

Trustee Tinsdale's Reasons for Transferring Miss Lewis.

The troubles in Grammar School No. 3, in the Ninth Ward, which led to the transfer of Miss Isabelle F. Lewis, one of the teachers. to Grammar School No. 16, on the recom-

Lawis.

After a great deal of time had been spent upon the reasons for her transfer, as they appeared upon the record. Commissioner Holt asked her if there were any additional reasons she wished to offer why her appeal should be sustained, and thereupon she made a statement as follows: She said that Edward McTaggert, the lanitor of Primary School No. 24, had notified her to report to the Chairman of the Board of Trustees on Friday. Oct. 11, 1889, at 7, 30 r. N.; that she sent the reply back that she would be there, but upon informing the Principal of her department, Mr. R. D. L. Southerland. he advised her not to go, and she gave this reason to the lanitor when he called on her the next day for an answer. She further estated that she was directed to report at the Board room in Grammar School No. 3 on the following Monday morning, Oct. 14, 1889, but that no reasons were assigned to her outside of those which appeared upon the written record. She admitted that two days thereafter, after having had personal interview with him, she wrote a letter to Trustee Renedict, offering to take a voluntary reduction of grade and salary in her own department if he would not vote to transfer her to Grammar School No. 16.

I thereupon motified Commissioner Holt that whe dan not opened up this matter, and would claim the right to answer what was brought out by the appellant.

that we had not opened up this matter, and would claim the right to answer what was brought out by the appellant.

Thereupon Miss Lewis stopped.

DID NOT TELL THE WHOLE STORY.
In answer to the inquiry of Commissioner Holt I stated that, at the written request of the Principal. I consented to give Miss Lowis a hearing and to present to her the reasons more as length for her transfer on the following Tuesday morning, Cot. 15. 1869, which reasons I had given to him on the previous Monday morning, and that had given them to her at that time, and that flow was there as appeliant to reveal them and sceak for berself if she saw fit. I further said that I deemed it for the best interest of the system not to give at that time the additional reasons, not on the record, for which the transfer was ordered. As hims Lewis aid not attempt to deny that I had told her what were the reasons for the transfer, and a none of the Committee saw fit to sak her what those reasons were, I did not imagine there was a hurning thirst on their part for any additional knowledge on the subsect. I assumed that they would foliow the usual course of sustaining the action of the board of Trustees, where the salary of a teacher has not been recluded by reason of the transfer.

She saked that I would repeat them to her, and I answered that, without entering into a discussion of the information from various discussion of the test of the require Miss and transfer in a corner of his private road and herself in a corner of his private for close with the decision of the board or benefit to reveal them and to make her reasons for the record, for which the transfer was ordered. As hims Lewis called our Trustees and the suital course of sustaining the action of the board of Trustees, where the salary of a teacher has not been reduced by reason of the transfer.

She was asked at the conclusion of the heart from Mr. B. D. L. Moutherland, which was passed for the record of the proposed transfer.

While I deeply deplore that the subject parties in the proposed which he had agreed he would leave upon the table in that room that afternoon. The clerk was also the Principal of the male department of the school.

It was not there, and thinking he might be mostairs making out the statement, I went up to the fourth floor and looked up the short stairway leading up from the fourth story to see if the door of his private room was open; I saw it was closed.

I then entered the assembly room, and hearing the noise of sweeping in one of the rooms, I called out loudly if Mr. Southerland was in the building.

The janitor's nephew answered: "He is in his room.

I went out on the landing, ascended the short stairway leading to his room, opened the door, and found Mr. B. L. I. Southerland and Miss isabelle F. Lewis in the souther westerly corner of the room in the recess formed by the right angles of the wall and the bookcase, back from the southerly window, of which the Venetian blinds were all the way down, whereby neither could be seen from the street.

The situation was too embarrassing for all of us; neither of them saluted or greeted me as I entered, nor did I them.

I finally ventured to ask if he had made out the promised incliental fund account statement. With much hestiancy he said he had not. I requested it to be furnished in the morning, and without any further exchange of words left the room. I was obliged to leave the city the next morning, and did not return for about a week or ten days.

SUCH MEETINGS HABITUAL.

Shortly after my return information was received to the effect that Mr. Southerland and Miss Lewis made a practice of reacting to his private room with the door shut after all the teachers were gone, and after consulting with Trustees Benedict and Yan Araldale, who, with myself constituted the Committee on Teachers, all of the facts above detailed having been fully considered, it was described that it would be best to notify Miss Lewis to report to me at Primary School No. 24, in order that I might then and there inform her that the Committee on Teachers intended to recommend that she be transferred to another school as well as to inform her of the grounds for this action.

It was contemplated, later on, to take such further action as the case would require of the Board of Trustees.

It was deemed injudicious to have Miss Lewis report at the Board room in Grammar School No. 3, for the reason that it might give further notoriety to the matter.

Miss Gerrish was at home when the reporter called and when asked if Miss Haiton was in town, rebiled:

"No. Of course not. She's in England."

"But you were seen walking with her on Broadway yesterday?"

"Oh, that's it, is it?" said Miss Gerrish merrily. "I wondered why every one was looking at us. That was not Miss Halton, however, though I acimit she resembles the lady I was walking with yesterday.

"Oh, no; Miss Halton is in England and making more money than she could here. I wish she would come back, don't you? The boys all liked her so."

Other inquiries were made, but it is evident that the report was somewhat premature.
